

The primary need for a do not call list, for me, is the number of senior citizens who are competent enough to remain at home with supports, but are slow cognitively to follow speed talking of telemarketers and agree to promotions without complete knowledge. These same seniors are easily exploited by individuals who prey on the elderly.